EVERBROOK BANK

First version of Everbrook Bank

Everbrook Bank, widely known as EB, is where the adventure truly starts. Its main purpose is for Flatters to deposit and withdraw their hard-earned items.

Everbrook Bank was made available for the first time about 21.5 moons ago. At that time, it allowed flatters to sell items directly inside the bank.

Featured Area

Today, the bank is the central hub for trades, chat, and gatherings. While selling directly to townspeople is not a possibility anymore, it hosts the always competitive Global Market.

THE DAY THE WORLD BECAME FLAT

Awakened alone, in a land that was Flat.
I came across a crying lady, who had just lost her cat.
She would give me ten coins, if I could bring the pet home.
Where this feline was, I did not know.

Walking due North, I passed by a large home with guards garrisoned outside.
They were armed with bronze swords, standing by the words, "Mayor's House", on a sign.
As I continued through town, I thought to myself, "this man... must be rich!"
Then I saw in the distance, a place where people could stand and fish.

I met a guy named Ned, he loved the beach and he owned a boat.
For 25 coins, I could float to a jungle island, but I was too broke.
That's when I found the cat, watching some men fish for sardines.
Here kitty, kitty, kitty, but she would not come to me.

Fresh out of ideas, South bound, I retraced my steps.
I found a farm with a cow and a pail, so I beat the cow to death
Don't ask me how it happened, but there was milk in my bucket.
I took it back to the kitty, and the kitty loved it!

Back to her home, back to her owner, the cat followed me back.
The crying lady stopped crying, thanking me for the task.
As promised by her, she gave me my ten coins in pay.
What I did with those ten coins, is a story for another day!

Ever since then, more people have come and joined the fun.
At first they walk slowly, but then they learn how to run.
Trapped together in this world, we can quest and we can chat.
And that's what happened when I awoke in a world that was Flat.
